

Interviewing God!

It's easy to conduct "interviews" with God – no special appointment needed! Just open your Bible.

First, what is written there is God speaking directly to you. Yes, the Creator of the universe grants to you an immediate personal interview!

Second, in a similar way God wants to reach into your child's heart. You can help it happen through using colourful and appealing Bible story books specially written for the young. They are readily available in Christian book shops.

Third, an important reason God puts young children under our care is so that we can introduce them to him and his Book on a daily basis.

We can set aside a regular time each day to read the Bible stories. If we are enthusiastic about it, our enthusiasm will be infectious – the children will love it. In this way they too will be having regular meetings with God.

Fourth, God knows the value of story-telling. It's why he put so many stories in his great Book, stories that have never lost their appeal. Make sure your young ones don't miss out on these treasures.

In particular, when they are learning to read, encourage them to read these stories to you.

*

*

*

"I will study your teachings . . . I will take pleasure in your laws and remember your words." Psalm 119.15-16 (Bible for Today).

Ken Packer